PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL CROWDER GIVES DETAILS

Of How the Drawings For the Selective
Draft Will Be Made--Draft Will Take Place Friday at 9.30 O'clock

(By Associated Press)
Washington, July 19.—At 9.30 o'clock tomorrow morning in a room in the senate building is the time fixed for the drawing in the selective draft.

Washington, July 19.—Ten million men are registered in the United States for war service—687,000 are needed in the first call for the national army. Who shall go first?

This question is asked and the method by which it is to be answered outlined by Provost Marshal General Crowder in an explanation issued tonight by the great drawing about to be held in Washington. The scheme is so simple that the drawing of one set of a thousand numerals and another ten will fix with absolute equality of chance the order in which every one of the ten million registrants shall report to his local board for examination and subsequent exemption, discharge or acceptance for military service.

Since the average exemption district registration is 3000 and there are 4,557 districts, the average number of men listed with each operation of the drawing machinery will be about 10,000.

General Crowder announces also that local boards will be instructed to call 200 per cent of their quota at the first call to provide for probable exemptions. That means that 1,374,000 men will be notified to appear for examination within the next few days. If more are necessary they will be called for as needed by the local boards in the order provided for in the drawing.

In some districts the 100 per cent allowance for exemption may be too large and in others too small, but the local boards will be instructed in all cases to continue calling for men until the district quota is filled. Each state governor is allotted to his districts their respective portions of the state's quota.

In each of the 4,557 exemption districts, among which the ten million registration cards have been divided, the cards had been given serial numbers. The number of registrants in each district varies from 188 in the smallest to more than 9,000 in the largest, so that the serial numbers to be dealt with in the drawing range from one to between nine and ten thousand.

In order to reduce the mechanical process and make it possible for the 1000 number drawn to reach every man in every district, a so-called master key has been devised. This will be obtained by drawing slips numbered from naught to ten, which will be listed in the order they are drawn to form the key.

Then will begin the drawing of the numbers one to one thousand. For the district with not more than one thousand registrants there will be no problem to determine the order of appearance before the exemption board. The number drawn first will fix the man whose card bears that serial number as the first to appear before his board. In the district with only 188 registrants, the 188 will be liable for appearance in the order in which their numbers are drawn, and when a number higher than that appears the district of course will not be affected.

Application of the master key makes it possible to apply fairly each of the one thousand numbers drawn to districts with more than one thousand registrants. As a number is drawn it will be added to each of the thousands in excess of one thousand in each district.

For instance, if 25 is the first number drawn, it will represent 25; 3025, 3025, 4025, 5025, 6025, 7025, 8025 and 9025.

By applying the master key the order in which these numbers will be listed in each district will be determined. If the drawing of ten numerals for the key should result this way: 9, 7, 1, 2, 5, 3, 0, 8, 4, 6, then the drawing of 25 as the first number of the one thousand would fix the first men to appear before the exemption boards in this order: 905, 7025, 1025, 5025, 2025, 3025, 25, 8025, 4025, and 6025.

The district with more than 9000 registrants thus will have ten of its men assigned to their places at the head of its list with 9025 on top. The district with less than one thousand men will have one number, 25, at the head of its list. This process will be continued until every man of the ten million has been assigned his place on the roster of his district.

In his explanation of the process and of the reason for fixing the order of liability for all of the men when only 687,000 are needed, General Crowder says:

"If we were dealing with the ancient draft we would take every fourteenth man. But we are not conscripting. We are selecting for military service those whose civil service can be spared. The scheme involved is so simple that the drawing of a thousand numerals is all that will be required.

"Now no one knows how many men must be examined to yield 687,000 soldiers. Therefore, no one can say just how many men it is absolutely necessary to put on this list.

"A moment's reflection will prove that the whole ten million must be given their places on the order of examination. Every registered man is in a state of uncertainty. He does not know when he will be called. He hesitates to plant a crop for fear he will not reap it. Employers hesitate to engage his services, fearing they will be but temporary. This condition ought to be cured for the repose of the public mind. It can be cured to some extent by putting every man on the list.

"For this reason the whole ten million names are to be given place on the list of order of examination.

"Obviously no single agency could examine 10,000,000 men. Therefore the 10,000,000 are segregated into groups of suitable size for convenient examination. There are 4557 of these groups. For each group a board has been appointed to examine for selection. By far the greater number of these groups consist of approximately 3,000 men.

"Since this is so, our problem is not to put the whole 10,000,000 names in one list arranged in the order of examination. It is to determine the order of examination in each center.

"Since all registered men stand in an equality of right and duty, the question of priority can only be determined by lot or drawing. It would be possible to have 4,557 separate drawings, one for each group, but since methods would vary and since supervision and absolute insurance against the charge of fraudulent manipulation could not be had in that way, every consideration of expediency and justice urges one drawing in Washington.

"In each group, every registration card has a red-tinted number written on its face and these numbers run in a single series from unity (1) to the number corresponding to the greatest number of cards in the group. Normally this is from unity (1) to about 3,000.

"Exact copies of the cards in each group have been attested and sent to the various state capitols. Lists showing the name of each man in each group and the serial number of his card have been posted in the office of the board, published in the press and one copy is on file in Washington. There is, therefore, no chance of any man's number being changed without detection or of any card being lost beyond replacement.

"Suppose there were just 3000 names and numbers in every group. It is at once apparent that it would be a very simple thing to have a central drawing that would control the order of every name and number in every group of the whole 10,000,000 just put 3000 numbers into a bowl and draw them out one at a time. The first number drawn out would place the 4557 cards bearing that particular number at the head of every list in the United States. The second number drawn would put the cards bearing that number second on all the lists and so forth.

"Now, the thing cannot be done in precisely this way, because there are not precisely 3000 numbers in every group. But the same idea with a few necessary modifications is the idea on which the present drawing is based.

"To draw 10,000 separate numbers would take ten hours and would multiply the chance of error. Moreover if the nine thousands, the eight thousands, the seven thousands, and the six thousands were scattered all over the master list indiscriminately, the cancellation by boards having small groups would be very tedious and would open the way to numerous errors. All this is easily avoided.

"Suppose we drew only 1,000 numbers. We would then provide that the drawing of the number 373 would also draw the numbers 1578, 2378, 3578,

SUFFRAGETTES ARE GRANTED A PARDON

Secretary Tumulty Says Action Speaks
For Itself and White House Has No
Statement to Give Out

(By Associated Press)
Washington, July 19.—President Wilson today issued a pardon for the sixteen suffragettes confined in the workhouse at Occoqu, Virginia, for picketing the White House.

Secretary Tumulty said the pardon would speak for itself and the White House had no statement to make.

Women party leaders at their headquarters expressed surprise at the President's action but declared most emphatically that the picketing at the White House would not cease.

Dudley C. Moloney, collector of customs of New York, who was to enter an appeal for the convicted women declined to make any comment. He received the news at suffrage headquarters.

WOULD HAVE AMES HEAD THE N. E. GUARDSMEN

War Department Frowns on Plan Backed by N. E.
Governors.

Washington, July 19.—A plan to promote Colonel Butler Ames of Lowell to the supreme command of the New England national guard regiments for the campaign in France is the extraordinary proposition which is engaging the attention of the war department.

In the face of repeated administration warnings that national guard officers would only be taken over at their present rate in the militia warnings issued for the express purpose of safeguarding against schemes of this sort, the Ames promotion has been seriously and soberly advanced to the federal war authorities.

And to the amazement of the officials three New England governors—McCall of Massachusetts, Keyes of New Hampshire and Holcomb of Connecticut—are formally on record as endorsing the project.

A week ago a hint reached Washington that an effort was being made to keep the New England national guard brigades together both at the southern training camp and in the foreign campaign. Inasmuch as the ambition of the war department has been to keep neighborhood troops together, this did not attract any special attention. For that reason no heed was given when it was reported that Governor McCall was canvassing the governors of the other New England states to obtain their signatures to a declaration in favor of such a plan.

When it was found, however, that the petition which reached Washington, went far beyond this and, besides requesting the brigading of the New England troops, also asked for the appointment of Colonel Ames as commander of an entirely different feeling developed.

The regular army staff, in short is up in arms over the idea. With every appreciation of the record of Colonel Ames as a graduate of West Point, and as a former veteran officer of the 6th regiment in the Spanish-American war these men feel such an appointment would open the door for political hosiery of all kinds. That in this case the effort is being made to obtain recognition for an officer of standing, is admitted, but it is yet felt the signature of the three governors would lead the public to the conclusion that this was merely a part of a political plan. The close political relationship between Gov. McCall and

Col. Ames they feel, would help to spread that belief among those who get their impressions from a merely cursory reading of the newspapers.

The attitude of the department also is that while Col. Ames might prove one of the ablest officers in the field, the administration cannot afford to take any chances in a campaign which is conducted 3000 miles from the home base. The stand has been taken that only men whose ability is already established are to be considered.

For that reason it can be predicted with safety that while the three governors, or McCall as the representative of the governors, will no doubt receive in time a formal letter of acknowledgment, the appointment desired will not be made. Col. Ames' opportunity may come with a lengthy war, but it will not be at the beginning.

Unfortunately for the Ames' cause, the department, in advance of receiving this plan, received a number of letters from New England people praising the determination of the department to confer general commands only on regular army officers. The writers of the letters held that while they were willing to give their sons and brothers to the service, they felt that they were entitled to assurances that only men of proven skill in general commands should have charge. The horrors of the European war have been driven in so steadily on the people that they have grown timorous as to what might happen to their boys under the command of others than experts.

The Ames idea is also weakened by reason of the absence of the signatures of the governors of Rhode Island, Vermont and Maine from the paper. It is assumed that the governors of these states were canvassed and that they must have refused. While it is true the three states which have given their approval to the suggestion contain a large majority of the national guardsmen, the failure of the other chief executives to join in the appeal opens an easy way to drop the matter.

Present plans are to continue search for a regular army man of high technical skill as the commanding officer of the northeastern department, might be named, but it is said that this is unlikely. He will be required to remain in charge of the department to which he is now attached. New England friends and relatives of the national guardsmen, the department officials say will have no reason to regret the selection of a general officer as finally made.

HAPPENINGS AT YORK BEACH

York Beach, July 19.—A noticeable improvement has been made at Short Sands by cleaning the beach, which has been in such a dirty condition this spring that people were not favorably impressed with the way affairs are managed at this resort.

The sand was covered with a large amount of seaweed, driftwood and a scattering of old shoes, so it was quite a task to put the beach in first-class condition. In order to scrape up the seaweed and papers it was found necessary to use an ordinary horse rake, and it certainly worked wonders. The whole beach was raked over and the rubbish and driftwood carted away, so that summer vacationists may now take pleasure in resting on the clean sand.

The best of rocks on the Concordville side, which has lain bare during part of previous seasons, is well covered with sand, so that unless there should come a heavy storm it ought to be no difficult matter to keep the beach clean. A man is hired by the corporation to clean up the rubbish every morning from both the sand and the beach square, and receptacles have been placed throughout the busy section in convenient places.

Traffic officers at this resort had a busy time over the week-end, as the automobile traffic was said to have been the heaviest so far this season.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Forsyth of Manchester have registered at the Fairview house for a short sojourn.

Mrs. Lewis Prescott and Miss Jeanie N. Wetherole of Concord are rusticating at Concordville.

James Harrell of Concord was a recent arrival at Concordville.

Margaret Hall of Meredith recently Miss Jeanie Lucas of Manchester is passing a vacation by the seashore.

Mrs. Jane Rowe and Miss Della Howe of Stratford were at the beach one day last week.

The Misses Sallie and Hazel Patten of Brighton, Mass., have returned to their home after an enjoyable vacation passed at Short Sands. When the young ladies were leaving they remarked at the postoffice that they had been pleasantly entertained at the hotel where they had been staying, and were much pleased that they had chosen York for a vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Stearns of Manchester were recent arrivals at the Kearsarge house.

C. H. Morse of Suncook was here recently for a short stay.

Adna M. Plummer of Ashland was a Sunday guest at York Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. David Green and Miss Alma Green of Concord were among the recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Noyes at York Inn.

J. S. Gordon and wife of Concord registered at the Waltham hotel last Saturday.

Fred B. Powell and wife were among the recent arrivals from Concord.

J. H. Jackman and family of Penacook have arrived for a vacation at Union bluff.

Wm. H. Gay and E. A. Pollard of Manchester registered at Short Sands the latter part of last week.

T. E. Ingham of Nashua was a Sunday visitor at York Inn.

The summer population at this resort is increasing very rapidly and from all indications the remainder of the season will be as lively as usual.

The weather has been warm and pleasant during the past two weeks and early vacationists have had plenty of opportunity for enjoying life by the seashore.

Mrs. Helen Holmes, Arnold Holmes, Miss Constance Osgood and the Misses Charlotte and Bertha Haskell recently returned to their home in Concord, after passing a few days as guests at Henry Clough's cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton T. Wallis of Concord were Saturday arrivals at the Palmwood house.

Miss Edith Manning of Manchester is sojourning at this popular resort.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hayes and Mr. and Mrs. John Burton Hayes of Stratford were here for a short visit the latter part of last week.

Fred B. Clough of Concord registered at this outing place last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Davis of Hooksett are enjoying ocean breezes at Short Sands.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Prescott of Manchester returned to their home the latter part of last week, having passed ten days' vacation at the Vermont house in Concordville.

Mr. and Mrs. Adin C. Robinson of Concord are among the many summer vacationists who are stopping at Concordville.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Haskell of Concordville.

Everybody should keep in mind the Red Cross benefit on Saturday afternoon, on the grounds opposite the Rice Public Library. A band concert by the Naval Band will be one of the features.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Winslow, Mrs. Corn Hook, Miss Margaret Hook and Harold Hayward of Hillsfield motored to York for another week-end at this pleasant resort.

Mrs. Ruby Gals of Hooksett is sojourning here for a vacation by the seashore.

The concert given by the dance hall orchestra Sunday afternoon was appreciated by a large number of beach visitors. It is something new for the beach to have Sunday concerts and they are causing a great deal of favorable comment. Five concerts are to be given every Sunday afternoon during the remainder of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Perkins and David Perkins of Stratford were recently here for a day.

The Misses Naomi M. Quinn, Margaret Smith and Lena M. Leavitt of Concord arrived at the Worthen house Saturday.

Mrs. A. deMontplé and Miss Mildred deMontplé of Manchester were recent beach visitors.

Apply few drops, then lift them off without pain.

A noted Cincinnati authority discovered a new ether compound and called it freezone and it now can be had in little bottles for a few cents from any drug store.

You simply apply a few drops of freezone upon a tender corn or painful callus and instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it off with fingers.

No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying freezone or afterwards, and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also longed calluses, just shrivel up and lift off so easy. It is wonderful! It works like a charm. Try it!

Callus on Feet

Apply few drops, then lift them off without pain.

A noted Cincinnati authority discovered a new ether compound and called it freezone and it now can be had in little bottles for a few cents from any drug store.

You simply apply a few drops of freezone upon a tender corn or painful callus and instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it off with fingers.

No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying freezone or afterwards, and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also longed calluses, just shrivel up and lift off so easy. It is wonderful! It works like a charm. Try it!

Women should keep freezone on their dressers and never let a corn ache twice.

THREE STATES ONLY NEEDED TO REPORT

Preparations for Transmitting Results of Army Drawings Are Now Being Rushed—Press And Telegraph Lines to Aid

(By Associated Press)
Washington, July 18.—Adjutant General Crowder's office tonight brings assurance that the selection of the numbers which will determine the drawings from among the 10,000,000 men of military age which will make up the national war army can be carried out Friday. The preparations for the drawing are completed but in the absence of Secretary Baker little information as to the details were announced. Until the reports from the governors of three states that their local exemption boards have completed their preliminary arrangements are received at the office nothing further can be done. Only New York, Pennsylvania and Minnesota remain to be heard from and it was stated at the office at closing tonight that these will report tomorrow as only a few scattered districts are missing.

One Hour's Work.
The present plan is to hold the drawing in the Capitol Building with the members of the Senate and House military committees as witnesses and the actual work of drawing the numbers should not take more than one hour.

The greatest task facing the officials now is the transmitting of the numbers and names of those called for examination to the various districts but the press associations and the telegraph companies were in consultation with the officials today and will give them all possible aid.

The greatest difficulty will come from individual newspapers rather than from the press associations in the reprinting of the numbers and names drawn without error.

This is a large task for in congested districts the great numbers make it almost impossible to publish the names of all registered and serial numbers. In New York city which contains 139 of the 557 exemption districts of the state it is practically an impossibility to publish the completed lists.

May Draft Aliens

The problem of drafting aliens, not alien enemies, is still before the war department as a serious question. This may be cleared up by the passage of a resolution submitted to the Senate today by Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the military committee, which will call for the drafting of all aliens who are citizens of countries now at war with Germany as though they were citizens of the United States.

the opportunity to extend this aid. One way of helping is to pay over the dividends to the Red Cross.

Those who withhold these checks—are they honest?

TURN OVER THAT RED CROSS DIVIDEND CHECK

Many corporations declared "Red Cross" dividends to help the American Red Cross care for our army and navy. The generosity of these corporations will have been in vain if shareholders fail to give the dividends to the Red Cross. Without these dividends the Red Cross will be hampered in its work of mercy.

The Red Cross is preparing now for a vastly increased American army at the front. It must ship great quantities of supplies. It must store up supplies for future emergencies. To do this the Red Cross must get the special dividends corporations gave to shareholders.

Do you know that the French, for the Spring offensive, prepared for 800,000 wounded? To prepare for our wounded the Red Cross must avail itself of every dollar it can get.

We won't risk the lives of our sons and brothers at the front in the muddy trenches. Yet skilled hands can do practically nothing without hospital stores and equipment. A great quantity of the stores and equipment can be bought with the millions outstanding in Red Cross dividends.

For the want of something better newspapers have been used to tie up the wounds of soldiers abroad. When our boys are wounded—and surely they will be—we are going to let them suffer still more through our neglect? To withhold a Red Cross dividend means withholding relief from our wounded.

We at home must help the army at the front. Men in the misery and madness of the firing line look to us for aid. The Red Cross alone offers

CHAMPION RECEIVES COMMISSION

(By Associated Press)

Sydney, Australia, July 18.—News was received here today that G. Finlay of West Australia, the breaststroke champion of the world received a commission some months ago and is attached to a naval corps of the British army in Egypt. Finlay already had taken part in the campaign in Palestine. He left Australia a private. In 1914, Finlay won the king's cup, one of the most coveted of English trophies for all around swimming.

GARDEN TALKS

(Written for the Public Safety Food Committee.)
Rose Bug.

Right now in many parts of New Hampshire, gardeners and orchardists are seriously alarmed for the safety of their crops by the attack of swarms of long-legged, spawling beetles, greenish yellow in color. These are the so-called "rose bugs" or "rose-chafers." They are about one-third of an inch long and cylindrical in shape.

They attack a great many kinds of cultivated crops. They feed not only upon the leaves of grape vines, bean bushes, and other plants, but up on the flowers and newly set fruit as well. On the leaves they eat away a large part of tissue, leaving only a network of small veins. On flowers, it is largely the central parts which are attacked. Holes are gouged out in the fruit.

A combination of hand picking and spraying, persistently practiced while the bugs are prevalent, seems to be the most effective treatment for this pest. For a spray use Arsenate of lead, at the rate of five pounds of the paste to fifty gallons of water or Bordeaux mixture. By the addition of one gallon of molasses to every twenty gallons of spray material, greater effectiveness is secured. Spray carefully and thoroughly and repeat from time to time if necessary. This spray must not be applied to such parts as are to be used soon for food.

The beetles may be brushed from the plants into a pan containing a little kerosene, which kills them by coming in contact with their bodies.

Rose bugs breed in sandy ground which has been allowed to grow up to grass or weeds. Such ground should be kept cultivated and harrowed, as far as possible to reduce the area of breeding places and to kill that form of the insect living in the ground.

LITERARY NOTES

The "British Empire at War" is the title of a book by Mr. Urban H. Broughton of London, S. W. He opens his story with the caption "To My Friends in the United States of America." He lived in this country from 1887 to 1912. His story is of the part England is taking in the war. He writes interestingly of how England went at her task without any desire for gain but to prevent the ruin of Belgium and France.

'BIT' FOR PLAYERS OF AUCTION BRIDGE

New York, July 18.—How many games of auction bridge are scheduled for today, in the cool shade of seaside or mountain piazzas, in the breezy suburbs, or right in town?

"Thousands? Probably!"
How many young Americans a couple of days ago severed home ties, gave up their summer pleasures and doctored to their armories to shoulder their rifles, start for Over There, and fight to keep the United States the place it is, when one can have such things as summer pleasures and auction bridge?

Tens of thousands! Hundreds of thousands! And in a few days, when the numbers are drawn for our new National army, there will be actually millions of young men facing the worst of human contingencies—war.

But what is the connection?

It's very simple.
Auction bridge players—particularly women—can do a lot, a wonderful lot, for the young Americans who are going out soon to fight for the democracy of the world. They can "make pleasure pay" by taking just the slightest bit of trouble and arranging matters so that their auction parties may produce a revenue for the American Red Cross, which will soon have to administer to many of those same young men, perhaps relatives of the same bridge players.

Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer of No. 7 East Seventy-third Street started last March an "auction bridge chain" for the benefit of the American Red Cross. This has already returned well above $20,000 to its object and has possibilities of returning very much more if auction bridge players will adopt the plan.

Mrs. Pulitzer gave a party of five tables. Each guest contributed $2 and promised to give a four-table party with a $2 contribution from each player. Then each of these was to give a three-table party, these a two, then a single game, all with the individual contribution.

In June Mrs. Pulitzer was able, from the receipts of part of this chain, to send to the American Red Cross at Washington $20,000. A considerable sum above this is now in the Metropolitan Bank drawing interest and will eventually be forwarded to the Red Cross. Miss Mary Patten of Washington, D. C., has raised and forwarded $625 through the same means.

The chain is being carried on with lively interest in Boston and in Albany Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, the lady of the Executive Mansion, is adding in "making pleasure pay" for the benefit of the boys in khaki.

This play should appeal to every devotee of the game of auction bridge. There are several ways in which Red Cross funds may be raised by players. They may make individual contributions at their games and these, no matter how small, are welcome, or they may start a small chain of their own—say with three tables, two table and single table parties.

Contributions may be sent to, or information as to how to proceed, may be obtained from Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, President and Treasurer of the Associated Cities of the United States of America Auction Chain Fund, at her summer home, Chatfield, Bar Harbor, Me., or to William S. Webb, Jr., 74 Broadway, New York City.

It was intended, at the time the chain was begun, to have it concluded Sept. 1, but the possibilities are so great $200,000 might be raised if every link were carried out—that the time limit has been extended to Oct. 1.

The patriotism of auction bridge players who were not connected with the original chain but who are and always have been welcome to join it, can result, if they will do that much of a little "bit" for their country, in raising a great sum for the ambulances, surgeons, nurses, hospitals and other life-saving and comfort-bringing things for our boys who are now or soon will be on the other side.

REORGANIZATION OF THE FLEET IS CONSIDERED

(By Associated Press)

Washington, July 18.—The reorganization of the Atlantic fleet by Secretary Daniels was announced today but few details, because of the military importance, were given out with the statement. The plan of the secretary calls for the promotion of another to the post of vice admiral and Rear Admiral Grant, in command of the submarine division, is suggested for the post.

The change will still keep Admiral Mayo in command of the fleet with Vice Admiral Coffman, second in command, in command of "division number 2," which will consist mainly of the super-dreadnaughts and battleships.

SOME INCREASE IN SHIP LOSS TO U-BOATS

London, July 18.—The British Admiralty in the official statement issued tonight of the weekly losses to British shipping through "enemies' submarines or mines shows a slight increase over the past few weeks and the number of merchantmen lost during the week is placed at fourteen. Four vessels of less than 1,000 tons were destroyed and eight British vessels were victims of the ocean terror.

No Lack of Opportunity.

Readers of this paper are aware that it is not at all in sympathy with the claim that this country does not now afford such opportunities for young men as it did a generation ago. There are croakers, and too many of them, who insist that the days of opportunity have practically gone by and that about the only chance a young man has now is to wedge his way into some big concern and serve as a "cog in the wheel."

But that this is not the case is being constantly demonstrated. Young men who started with nothing but good heads, strong bodies and a willingness to apply themselves are constantly forging to the front in the business and professional world, proving that there is room for ability and recognition of merit wherever and when ever these come to the front.

Just now there comes to notice a conspicuous case of rapid rising which should be a source of pride and gratification to the people of New Hampshire, as the man is a native of this state. He is Harvey D. Gibson of New York, president of the Liberty National Bank of that city, and who has just been appointed general manager of the Red Cross.

Mr. Gibson formerly lived in North Conway. In 1902 he went to Boston and took a minor position with the American Express Company. He attended to business, kept his eyes open and worked up rapidly, as does every capable young man who follows that course. He became the assistant manager of the company, a position which would have spelled success if he had gone no higher, but he was not to stop there. Last January he took the presidency of the Liberty National Bank of New York, one of the big financial institutions of the country, and has now been named as general manager of the Red Cross, a position of very great responsibility. And Mr. Gibson is only 35 years old.

While this case is conspicuous it is by no means exceptional. The country is full of parallels. At the heads of railroad and steamship companies and great manufacturing and commercial establishments are men who began at the very bottom of the ladder and went to the top by virtue of their ability and willingness to work. They did not waste their time in watching the hands of the clock or expend their energies in growling about their salaries not being equal to their worth. They simply made the best use of their powers, served their employers honestly and energetically, and never had occasion to grumble about the lack of opportunity.

It is a grievous mistake to assume that there is not abundant opportunity for every young man who has the right stuff in him and is ready to do his best. Not all are endowed by nature with equal abilities, but there is nothing to prevent any young man from going in the business or professional world as far as his capacity will permit him to go. The failures are not due to lack of opportunity, but to the lack of application and hard work without which success is impossible, even in the face of the greatest opportunities in the world.

The significant thing about the finding of a German submarine off the coast of Ireland the other day with every member of the crew dead was the conclusion that they had been suffocated by a deadly gas that had formed "without warning." It is a pity that some of them could not have lived to realize the heinousness of hostile operations on the sea without warning, as does the whole world aside from Germany and her allies.

The Elks of the country were greatly pleased with their treatment in Boston on the occasion of their annual convention there, notwithstanding the brief but provoking strike of the hotel waiters. And they pledged themselves to the support of the war with a heartiness that must have been very gratifying to President Wilson.

Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman of New York, anarchists and conspirators against registration, are now serving prison terms by sentence of a federal court. The woman has already been set to making overalls, and possibly some of them may be worn by her fellow anarchist in the course of his prison labors.

It has been decreed that the men in training at Plattsburg shall learn to swim. This is a good thing. Every boy and girl in the country should be taught to swim. Swimming is a pleasant and healthful exercise and there are times when it is the greatest of life savers.

There is a great crop of hay in most parts of this state and New England; and the farmers are beginning to feel that it is about time for some hay weather.

Of course the New York bars have ruled out the free lunch purely in behalf of conservation—of profits.

From the Exchanges

Beating the Turks at Cruelty

(From the Baptist Standard)

For sheer blood thirst and primitive hate, the race riots at East St. Louis are unequalled by anything that has occurred during the European war. The Turks certainly have nothing on this river town when it comes to outright cruelty. These events have cast an indelible stain upon the State of Illinois and upon the entire nation. The only way before us is an impartial investigation by State and Federal authorities and the just meting out of punishment to every one who is responsible in any way for this horrible crime.

Should Forfeit Self-Government

(From the Living Church)

East St. Louis has disgraced herself, her State, and her nation. Within her limits, democracy has signally failed. Municipal maladministration and corruption, with an utter failure to deal with the housing problem of the negro population, have produced finally a massacre and an anarchy that must fill all Americans with indignation and chagrin. The massacre of St. Bartholomew's Day becomes intelligible in the light of this, its modern reproduction. Perhaps the best remedy to apply to a condition such as this would be the denial of the right of self-government to a community that has so disgraced itself. A military control for a year or more, under the direction of the governor of the State, might do for such a community in America what it accomplished in Cuba and in the Canal Zone. At any rate the cancellation of the municipal charter of a city that has proven so helpless to maintain law and order should be insisted upon by the outraged citizens of the State of Illinois.

We do not forget that the law-abiding citizens of East St. Louis have the most intense sense of humiliation at what has occurred. But since these have been powerless to secure for their city an honest and competent administration, and have permitted or been forced to witness the degradation of their city government and now the triumph of anarchy, they may well join now in asking the state to undertake a local control such as can give them a government strong enough and honest enough to preserve the peace and to protect human life and property.

Bring On The Rail!

(From the New York World)

"Man who makes the wagon will ride in it himself," declares I. W. W. leader. "The I. W. W. man makes not a wagon, but trouble; and he is in for hard riding."

A "G. C. B." For Mr. Gerard

(From the Philadelphia Public Ledger)

When diplomatic relations with Germany were severed and Mr. Gerard, then the American ambassador, left Berlin, there was cordial recognition by the English press of the great service he had done in protecting the interests of the English prisoners in Germany. It was suggested at the time that some official expression of gratitude should be offered to him. The king has now very happily shown him how highly his work is regarded by bestowing upon him the Order of the Bath of the highest class. This is one of the most ancient orders, and the most important for which a commoner is eligible. The Grand Cross was never before given to an American, though Commander Pearson, U. S. N., was made a companion as long ago as 1864. Under the rule forbidding American officials to accept foreign decorations, he was obliged to decline it. Mr. Gerard, being no longer in the diplomatic service, is at liberty to accept the honor conferred upon him. There will be general gratification that Mr. Gerard's self-sacrificing labors at a very trying time should be thus officially recognized.

The World Not Fooled

(From the New York Herald)

That "show pigskin" at Berlin may serve its primary purpose, which is to fool the German people, but there is no chance of its accomplishing its secondary purpose, which is to fool the world into the belief that it bears some relation to democratization. Nothing of consequence to the outside world can happen in that country until the army rises in its might and takes the side of the German people against the Kaiserism that is making for their destruction. Until that time comes or until there are tangible evidences that a movement in that direction is well under way it will be useless for the nations against which the Kaiser has launched this world war to divert to consideration of Germany's internal problems any of the thought they now are giving to the saving of civilization to the world.

Nothing Defined

(From the Albany Journal)

Among things that do not mean anything is the sale of Liberty Bonds at infinitesimal fractions below par.

The Curse of the Demon

(From the Baptist Standard)

The great influx of negroes from the South is the occasion but not at all the underlying cause of the East St. Louis horror, which must bring a sense of shame and horror to every true American. It is a sad story of exploitation, and graft that goes back for many years. Senator Sherman of Illinois before the Senate placed the responsibility upon the "infernal, lawless, damnable saloons that have infested East St. Louis and blighted that community for years." The decent voters of that city long ago abdicated in favor of a municipal government controlled by the worst elements in the community. It is the saloonkeepers of East St. Louis and their kind who lead the van of every lawless movement and breed and spew their infamous vermin upon every community where they are suffered to exist. I am a "bone-dry" senator from now on. Such was the verdict of Senator Sherman. More than one hundred negroes killed and more than five thousand negro families driven away from their homes—this is the result of a race antagonism which has been fanned into fury by dirty politics.

PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL CROWDER GIVES DETAILS

1878, 5878, 6878, 7878, 8878 and 9878.

"In that way only 1,000 numbers need be drawn, and by making our master list consist of one sheet for each 1,000 we could provide a master list easily applicable to the lists with only 3000 numbers, since such boards could disregard all except the first three sheets.

"We should do this but for the fact that this makes it certain that men in the first thousand would be called first, men in the second thousand next, and men with high serial numbers last of all.

"Since the assignment of numbers is also done by chance, this does not interfere very greatly with the even chance of all men, but it does interfere to some extent. For this reason it was decided to have one drawing to determine the order within any group of 1000 and another drawing to determine the order in which the sheets of 1000 each should appear on the master list. Instead of arbitrarily assigning the sheets of 1000 in their natural order, this reduces the whole matter to an absolute equality of chance.

"One group of numbers, from 1 to 1,000, and a second group from 0 to 10, have been carefully imprinted on opaque slips of paper, blank on one side, counted and checked. These slips have been rolled up and each put inside a gelatine capsule with the blank side out. To insure absolute accuracy of count the capsules containing numbers from 1 to 1,000 have been counted into ten glass jars in groups of 100 each; the glass jars have been sealed and kept in a safe awaiting the day of drawing.

"The contents of the jars will be dumped into a large glass receptacle from which the capsules can be readily drawn.

"A blindfolded man will stir the capsules in the receptacle thoroughly before any are drawn and will keep stirring them during the drawing.

"A blindfolded man will then draw capsules out one at a time. As each capsule is drawn it will be handed to an announcer, who will break the capsule and announce the number drawn. While he is announcing the number, the second capsule will be drawn and handed to a second announcer, who will break the capsule and read the number. The drawing will proceed in this way until all the capsules are drawn.

"Three tally sheets will be kept. One keeper of a tally sheet will repeat each number as it is announced and all three will write it down. In case of disagreement between tally sheets on any number the sheets that agree will control.

"Immediately before the drawing of the numbers from 1 to 1,000 the drawing of the numbers from 0 to 10 will take place to determine the order in which the thousands shall appear on the master list."

PLAN TO PRINT BONDS BY SECRET PROCESS

Boston, July 19.—Because work on bonds and securities by the secret process used in steel and copper plate printing is a preventive of counterfeiting, delegates attending the 26th annual convention of the Steel and Copper Plate Printers of North America, now in session at the Hotel Brewster, voted to have a special committee make plans for having work on State and Municipal bonds done by this process.

The process to be used, it is said, is the same as that used by the United States and Canadian governments. The committee will report before the convention adjourns Saturday. Only one business session will be held today, as the delegates will be the guests of the entertainment committee of Local 3 of this city on a trip to Nantasket beach this afternoon.

EGGS ARE GOING HIGHER, PRODUCE OFFICIAL SAYS

Packers Put Them Into Storage—Potatoes to Sell at 40 Cents.

Boston, July 19.—There are more causes of eggs in the freezers right now than there were at this time last year, yet eggs are high and going higher, said Edwin E. Wilson, vice president of the Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange yesterday.

"The question of food prices came up while Mr. Wilson, Walter E. Fletcher, president, and Alton Briggs, secretary of the exchange, were resting from the games that marked the annual outing of the Fruit and produce men at Nantasket.

"Who has put all the eggs into storage?" Mr. Wilson was asked.

"The big packers," he replied. They came down on our exchange and simply hid them over our heads. We couldn't buy them at the price they were willing to pay for them. They pulled the price up, put the eggs in storage at high prices and the buying is light. But they'll be higher soon.

Spuds Will Sell at 40 Cents

President Fletcher and Secretary Briggs both said that potatoes will soon be sold at 40 cents a peck.

"Everyone I know who has a yard of earth to spare is growing potatoes," said Mr. Briggs. "That means fewer will be bought and more will be brought to the market.

"Down in Aroostook county they're raising 40 per cent. more potatoes more than they did last year, so-called President Fletcher. "That will help. Every one seems to be raising a few of them. Some raise enough for themselves and others a few extra bushels. They'll be lower.

"Will they be sold for 30 cents a peck?" the exchange officials were asked.

"I doubt it," said Secretary Briggs. "If they go lower than 40 cents, every one will start eating them instead of other foods. Considering the high prices of everything else, I don't see how they can go lower than 40 cents a peck. But that's quite a drop from a $1 a peck, however."

Secretary Briggs and President Fletcher explained that frozen meat is just as good as fresh-killed, and that the public should eat and can all kinds of perishable food.

"Frozen poultry," said Secretary Briggs, "is cheaper than any other meat on the market. We don't look at poultry as meat. It is almost a delicacy.

Just now, because of many factors, it is cheaper than it has been for a long time. Every one should eat it. It's a good hot weather meat.

"The idea that frozen poultry is not as good as fresh-killed is fallacious. Everything put into cold storage is examined and must be perfect before it goes in. It is then frozen solid, and out it is in the same condition as when put in.

"I paid 28 cents a pound for some chicken last week. Had it for my Sunday dinner and it was delicious a piece of meat as I ever ate."

President Fletcher suggested that if housewives will buy fruit and perishable vegetables the cost of living will be reduced materially next year.

Fruit Is Cheap

"Fruit is cheap and will be cheaper," he said. "Lots coming in. Tell the women to eat what they can, and can what they can't. Don't let it spoil. Spoiled fruit has to be paid for by some one, generally the consumer.

Sec. Briggs, in speaking of the prices the out-of-town retailers charge, urged that a separate charge be made for delivery, and added that all who run bills should pay interest.

"I run a monthly bill at the grocery store," he said in explaining the proposition. "I sometimes telephone to the store and order something costing a quarter to be sent up to the house. Of course the grocery man has to charge more for his goods to pay for the delivering cost. He has also to add an interest charge to his prices.

"Now suppose that you carry home all your bundles and pay cash. Why should you pay the same price for the goods that I do? In a few years that will be figured out, and goods will be sold at a set price, just a small charge for delivering, and a low rate of interest will be charged to all who buy bills.

In that way the small housekeeper who goes to market will not be asked to pay for the upkeep of the delivery wagons, which she rarely sees.

THINNING VEGETABLES

Before the beets, turnips, late sowings of radishes and other such vegetables become so crowded as to make them weak and small they should be thinned. This requires careful work so as not to disturb the permanent plants more than necessary but will pay well. Only the strongest, healthiest plants should be left to mature, discarding all weak, or abnormal ones, thus securing a uniform stand of good plants with plenty of room for development. The plants which are thinned out can be transplanted elsewhere and soon they become established and the garden is hereby extended. In transplanting remember it is well to select a cloudy or rainy day for the work, or at least to do the work in the evening. Also the larger outer leaves should be cut off as they are of little value and will often wilt down anyway and make a drain on the plant for water which it can ill afford to lose at that time.

In growing celery it should be remembered that they require a moist soil throughout their growth period. Where the soil is likely to dry out later it would be well to mix the rows with horse manure and thereby obviate the necessity of cultivation as well as conserving moisture. The manure should be four or five inches thick. Other vegetables can also be successfully grown with the mulch system instead of cultivation. Grass clippings can be placed along the rows of vegetables to advantage and if a little manure, water or nitrate of soda is added occasionally the combination will give very vigorous productive plants. Raspberries and blackberries will also produce well when mulched and in a dry season are not so likely to produce defective partly dried berries as is often seen where cultivation is followed.

A special program on drying will be a feature of the final series of demonstrations given by the thirty-one evening demonstrators now at work throughout New Hampshire, under the direction of the State Public Food Committee.

The importance of drying, and the ease with which it can be done, are not generally understood. A generation ago fruits and vegetables were dried in thousands of New Hampshire homes in the season of summer abundance, providing a store of palatable supplies that could be drawn on through winter. Gradually the practice died out, as canned goods became more universally used.

The apparatus required for home drying is very simple. In fact it may be done with the utensils commonly found in every household. Both fruits and vegetables may be dried in shallow pans placed on the back of the stove or in the oven, or racks may be used covered with muslin. For operations on a larger scale there is practical apparatus on the market.

It is not claimed the drying can take the place of canning, but rather it should be regarded as a supplement to the latter. A point of importance in favor of drying is the fact that the finished product occupies little space, and it can be stored in containers that could not be used for canning. Glass jars or tin cans are not necessary. Few people realize how palatable properly dried fruits or vegetables can be. If the operation is carried out according to instructions, there need be no loss of flavor or attractiveness.

The third series of demonstrations throughout the state will begin next Monday, July 23. For the ensuing two weeks each of the thirty-one demonstrators will visit the communities in which canning demonstrations have already been held, and in the course of the program will cover the various phases of the practice of canning, giving explicit instructions and answering questions.

The work of the demonstrators continues to receive widespread interest. Chairman Huntley N. Spaulding of the State Food Committee announced today that the attendance at the demonstrations to date called many thousands. There has been no abatement of enthusiasm, and there is every indication that the volume of fruits and vegetables canned this season will equal a tremendous increase over that of any recent year.

SIX KILLED, 238 HURT IN RIOTS AT PETROGRAD

Russian Capital Now Quiet; Arrest of Government Officers Denied.

Petrograd, July 18.—Following the series of clashes between patrolling forces of the government and Maximilians, which occurred last night this morning was quiet under a continuous downpour of rain. Yesterday's list of casualties as far as ascertained comprises six persons killed and 238 wounded.

Premier Lyoff today sent the following telegram to all the provisional government commissaries:

"In reply to your inquiry, the minister of the interior informs you that the report regarding the arrest of members of the provisional government are false. As to appeals to overthrow the government by force of arms and transfer all power to the soldiers and the workmen, these appeals had the character of irresponsible acts on the part of the members of an extreme minority and were received in an unfriendly manner by the people.

"At the same time, the government, in full agreement with the 'soldiers' Workmen's and Peasants' delegates and the Duma is taking measures to avert the occurrence of incidents which might be inimical to the state.

BIG AVIATION BILL HITS SNAG

Two Senators Refuse Unanimous Consent to Appropriation of $640,000,000.

Washington, July 18.—The administration's $640,000,000 aviation bill struck a snag yesterday when Senator Chamberlain of the Senate committee on military affairs attached to have it put through the Senate by unanimous consent. Senators Hardwick of Georgia and Owen of Oklahoma objected to its being voted upon, and under the rules it had to go over.

The delay in reaching a vote upon the bill, backed as it is by more than two-thirds of the Senate, is expected to cause its hold-up only for a few days at the most. Senator Chamberlain cannot call it up again until early next week, when its passage is practically assured.

"The war and navy departments want this bill to pass so as to rush work on airplanes, which, they say, will play a vital part in the winning of this war," said Senator Chamberlain in bringing up the measure. "I believe the whole country wants it and that debate is useless."

Senator Hardwick insisted that debate was not useless, unless the bill is amended so as to prevent resorting to the selective draft in getting aviators wanted in the flying service. He offered an amendment to that effect.

Senator Owen offered an amendment to put authority to handle the $640,000,000 appropriation embraced in the bill with a government commission.

"That's a big sum of money and I don't hesitate to say that graft might creep in unless great care were used in handling it," declared Senator Owen. "We must throw ample safeguards around the expenditure of these huge sums for war purposes."

Senator Vandenberg of Mississippi spoke against drafting men for the air corps.

"I cannot support any bill that embraces conscription service," he said. "I don't want to delay the passage of this bill but intend voting against it unless it is altered so the air service shall be confined to volunteers."

"It is gratifying to me to read that our brethren in Canada are opposing conscription. It is a manifestation of independence and patriotism. I say it was an unhappy day when America came to conscription. It's an American I am against conscription. I am opposed to bridling freedom of speech or the press. I am against anything that operates as a padlock upon the freedom of Americans."

Senator Owen read a newspaper article which estimated that the $140,000,000 appropriations would provide for only 22,000 war planes and wanted the senate to investigate how the money was to be spent before passing the bill. Senator Chamberlain challenged the newspaper estimate as incorrect, saying the government could build many more than 22,000 machines with the money. He dwelt on the urgency of aviation development without delay.

DRAFT RULES ALL SHOULD KNOW

Instructions Issued From Hillsborough County Headquarters.

The drawing of draft numbers will be made at Washington within a few days. Here are the final instructions to registered men of Portsmouth and surrounding towns as given out by the local board, No. 1, for the county of Rockingham, with headquarters here: "All men registered in Rockingham county towns have been given the new serial numbers (or so called test list numbers) lists of which have been published in the local papers, to give the men an opportunity to know their number, which will be used in making the draft. Every man should remember his number, and may, if he chooses, cite it on the back of his registration certificate.

Men whose numbers are drawn will be notified to appear before a local board within a week or at a date to be named in the notice, for physical examination; failure to receive the notice by mail will not excuse the man from appearing, posting the notice in the office at Portsmouth is legal notice to him. The newspapers will be given information as to the date of examination, with request to publish. Watch the local papers.

"Men claiming exemption, whether for physical, industrial or agricultural reasons will do so in forms provided by the board, and the exemption proceedings will be at that time explained to them, but they must present themselves for examination as though no exemption was claimed.

"Men found physically disqualified will be given a certificate setting forth the facts and will for the time being at least be excused from service."

GIRLS' RECITAL RECALLS EVELYN THAW EPISODE

Revere Fire Captain Denies Wrong Doing—Charges a Frame-Up.

Boston July 19.—A story that recalled the one told by Evelyn Thaw of her experiences with Stanford White in the Madison Square Garden tower, was recited by 17-year-old Beatrice Griffin of 93 Hollingham avenue, Revere, at a hearing on charges preferred against Fire Captain Philip A. Murphy of Revere yesterday.

The hearing, a mere formality, was held before Mayor Alfred S. Hall. The question was as to whether or not the captain was guilty of misconduct. It found guilty he would be liable to removal from the department.

Attorney James J. Gaffney, representing Captain Murphy, said that he would take the case to the Chelsea court. In the event of Captain Murphy's discharge, he would have the right under the civil service law, to have the case reviewed by the local court.

Miss Griffin, who looks older than 17, is tall and attractive. She was accompanied by her mother who preferred the charges against the captain, and whose story made public a day or so ago aroused the people of Revere. Mayor Hall announced that if there were any illegal lives in Revere he would root them out.

The girl's story given under examination by her attorney, Chester J. O'Brien, was in part as follows:

Q.—You were present at Murphy's bungalow on Leonard street on the evening of March 22?

A.—Yes.

Q.—What were you told it was?

A.—Ginger ale.

Q.—What did it turn out to be?

A.—I believe there was whisky in it.

Q.—Did those drinks make you ill that evening?

A.—Yes.

Q.—What happened after you drank the whisky?

A.—I was sick and went to bed.

Q.—You were too sick to go home?

A.—Yes.

Q.—In the morning when you woke up Mr. Murphy was sitting on the side of the bed?

A.—Yes.

Mr. Gaffney announced that he did not wish to present any evidence but would take the matter to the Chelsea court.

Captain Murphy says he is a victim of a frame-up. He said he was innocent of any wrong-doing. "It was just one of those little parties which had been grossly exaggerated," he said.

SECOND WEEK AT GREEN ACRE

The social season began with the first of the regular Saturday dances in the Elenion. About thirty couples took part in the dancing. These dances are held every Saturday at 7.35 p. m. through the season.

Dr. Martin K. Schermerhorn, of Cambridge, Mass., the oldest serving Greenacre lecturer, conducted a devotional service in the Elenion Sunday morning. His theme was "World Religions," and he spoke eloquently of the movement for unity among all the creeds and nations which was started here in Greenacre 24 years ago by Miss Sarah Farmer.

Dr. Schermerhorn spoke again in the afternoon on "Religious Unity and the Purpose of the Greenacre Conferences." The doctor is an eloquent speaker, and though well past three score years and ten retains the inspirational fire and enthusiasm of perennial spiritual youth. He was to have spoken twice on Monday but was suddenly recalled to Boston, much to the regret of the people of Greenacre.

Professor Edward Getzinger spoke informally on Monday in the Elenion on the "Mystery of the Zodiac." A brief review could not do justice to this intensely interesting lecture, which outlined some of Dr. Getzinger's recent discoveries which may revolutionize the astronomical scientific basis for a chronology of civilization much more ancient than that generally accepted, even by learned archeologists.

On Wednesday evening in the Elenion the first musical treat of the season was furnished in a concert under the direction of Mr. Edward B. Kinney of Boston.

The following program was rendered to a highly appreciative audience:

1. The New "National Anthem," played and sung by the composer, Mr. E. B. Kinney.

2. Song, "Hosanna Time"—Mrs.

Helen Green-Lowell of Worcester.

3. Tenor solo—Mr. Edward Larson of Boston.

4. The original compositions for piano—Mr. Kinney.

"The Rose Petal."

"Spring," waltz song.

5. (a) "The Star."

(b) "Mother, Macree."

(c) "Mary, Says I."

Mrs. Helen Green-Lowell

6. (a) Selection.

(b) "At Dawning."

(c) "Swedish Song."

Mr. Edward Larson

7. "Rose of My Heart"—Duet for tenor and soprano—Mrs. Lowell and Mr. Larson.

The following guests registered at Greenacre Inn during the past week: Miss Marion N. Steeves, Boston; Dr. Robert H. Herbst, Chicago; Mrs. A. L. Spring, Brookline, Mass.; Miss E. Sherman, Boston; Mrs. Walter Jenny, Boston; Mrs. D. A. Sargent, Canada; Miss Boucher, Eliot, Me.; Randolph Bolles and family, Montreal, Canada; Mrs. Rose Henderson, Montreal, Canada; N. G. Henderson, Worcester, Mass.; Mrs. B. F. Miner and family, Dorchester, Mass.; William W. Locke, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Flemmings, Brooklyn; B. Harrison Cost, Brockton, Mass.; Miss Lena Trowbridge, Melrose, Mass.; Mrs. G. S. May, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Evelyn May, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Margaret May, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Miss Cora E. Gray, Urbana, Ill.

EXPOSURE MAY PROVE FATAL

Aged Rochester Man Found After Wandering About in Woods.

East Rochester, July 19.—John Bigelow, 76 years old, an old soldier and retired business man who wandered from his home on the Lebanon side Tuesday morning, walked into the residence of George Varney on the River road yesterday morning, presenting a pitiable sight.

His clothes were besmeared with mud and his face, neck and arms swollen from mosquito bites, as he had undoubtedly laid in some field or pasture through the night although he can give no account of his wanderings. Until midnight Tuesday a large searching party searched for him, not relinquishing their search until midnight with the determination of resuming it yesterday morning.

Mr. Bigelow, who is in poor health and a much respected resident, was taken home in an automobile belonging to Sampson Post, G. A. R. of Rochester. About three years ago he was gone from home in a demented state for three days and a searching party found him unconscious two miles from home in the field of James Corson. Mosquitoes had bitten him severely. He rallied, however, although it was thought that he could not recover. He was out Tuesday night through the drenching rain, and is now in a critical condition. The searching party was summoned by the church bells.

EDITOR M'LELLAN PASSES AWAY AT 59

Aid to Mrs. Eddy and Member of Christian Science Board of Directors.

Boston, July 19.—Archibald McLeLlan, an editor of Christian Science periodicals, an officer of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, and an aid to Mrs. Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, passed away after a brief illness at his home in Brookline yesterday morning.

Mr. McLeLlan was born at Moncton, N. B., Nov. 10, 1857, and was, before coming to Boston, a resident of Chicago. From 1903 until his passing Mr. McLeLlan was a member of the Christian Science board of directors. He was a 32nd degree Mason and actively interested in the work of Masonry. Other organizations to which he belonged were the National Press Club, of Washington, Boston Press Club, Boston City Club, and Canadian Club of Boston.

HARMON CRAIG IS KILLED IN FRANCE

Son of Boston Stage Favorite Is Victim of Shell.

Harmon Craig, son of John Craig and Mrs. Craig (Mary Young), the Boston stage favorite, has been killed in France. Word was given to Mrs. Craig yesterday, on her return from Europe.

The young man had been serving in the ambulance corps along the Western front and according to information that reached this country, was killed by a shell. He was well known in Boston and Cambridge, for he was a student at Harvard University and participated in several thousand productions there.

His father and mother have for many years been prominent on the stage, particularly in the Castle St. Theatre stock companies, which Mr. Craig has managed for many seasons.

The Portsmouth Herald publishes the news, both foreign and local when it is news.

WANTS TO REVIVE MARKET BASKET

Curtailment of Deliveries Urged by Chairman Jameson.

Concord, July 19.—The curtailment of deliveries by grocery and department stores is strongly urged by Chairman John B. Jameson, state committee on public safety in a communication sent this week to all local committees on public safety. Mr. Jameson quotes the council of national defense at Washington, giving some enlightening statistics.

The council's investigation on this subject discloses: "In ordinary retail grocery stores the common figure for delivery expense is 3 per cent of the net sales. In the stores selling fancy groceries and therefore catering to a class of trade requiring more expensive service, the delivery expense is even higher.

"Our figures show that in department stores the total delivery expense, including every step from the time the package is wrapped until it reaches the customer, ranges from one per cent to 5 and 6-10 per cent of the sales. The average figure for department stores in large cities is about 4 per cent. The cost of delivery in department stores and large specialty stores ranges from 3 to 25 cents a package.

"To a great extent, however, the stores themselves are at fault for the large number of small packages delivered; they have not sought to encourage customers to take packages with them, nor have they properly endeavored to facilitate the rapid serving of customers."

The Council of National Defense reports also the heavy expense incurred in many dry goods stores from the habit of allowing dry goods to be returned after they have once been taken from the stores. It is stated that the returns vary from 4 per cent to 30 per cent of the total sales. In one instance, a store having annual sales of about $3,000,000 showed that returned goods amounted to 20 per cent of the total sales, with an expense of $14,000 in the office, plus $20,000, in packing and $16,000 in delivery.

Mr. Jameson urges strongly that no retail store make more than one delivery a day. He also urges that the acceptance of returned goods be reduced to an absolute minimum.

"It is further suggested that in small cities and towns a central co-operative delivery system could be worked out, at a reduction of 40 or 50 per cent of the delivery cost.

The council makes the following statement:

"The retail stores of the country can dispense with many thousand men and clerks and still perform all of the necessary delivery service. These men and this equipment could be used far more advantageously for other purposes. There are also in the department stores many men and much equipment unnecessarily employed in delivering small parcels and making extra trips."

The local committees are asked to take these matters under serious consideration at once and are advised to all meetings, to adopt resolutions asking stores to reduce their deliveries of goods as far as possible, and thus release for more necessary work men now employed in delivering goods, and ask all merchants to refuse, if it can be done, the privilege of returning goods.

GIRL LURED AWAY TELLS EXPERIENCES

Woodsville, N. H., July 19.—After two days of cross-questioning by county solicitor Raymond H. Smith of Woodsville and Special Officer Jesse S. Watts of Manchester, Hazel M. Ballant, the pretty 14-year-old Woodsville girl who mysteriously disappeared from her home early Sunday morning and as mysteriously returned home Tuesday, was finally induced to divulge the name of the man responsible for her leaving her home and gave in detail the story of her adventures.

The girl said that two or three weeks ago she became acquainted with a young man about 20 who told her his name was Timothy O. Sullivan, whom she thought lived in Woodsville or Wells River, Vt. At last night's meetings at the Vermont end of the toll bridge he gave her various sums of money with which she secretly bought clothes and hid them in the woodshed at her home.

Her last meeting was Saturday afternoon when it was arranged that they should leave on the Canadian express early the following morning. Slipping from her bed about 2 o'clock she stole to the shed where her clothes were hidden, quickly dressed and went to the street near her home, where she met Sullivan who had a large black grip. He gave her money to pay her fare to Manchester and told her to go at once to the depot, which she did, he following a short distance behind. Arriving at the station they boarded the train, she entering a coach and Sullivan the smoker.

Just before arriving at Manchester Sullivan brought her a package, telling her it contained a suit which she was to put on in the Manchester station. While the girl was making the change, Sullivan also changed his suit of blue to one of gray. They had breakfast at a restaurant and passed the morning in walking, car riding and sight seeing, returning to the same restaurant for dinner. Her escort evidently was known in Manchester as several people there called him "Bob," according to the girl.

About two o'clock they took the train for Boston and having arrived there were taken to a hotel in the center of the city in separate taxis. At the hotel, the girl registered as she claims, as Mrs. Sullivan; Sullivan standing not far from the clerk's desk, at the time. He did not register, it seems, and the girl claims she did not see him again until the next morning about ten o'clock when she took a train at the North station. There she met Sullivan.

During the afternoon he bought her some clothing and gave her $5 and bought two tickets for Manchester, giving her one and retaining the other. The girl, who perhaps was not enjoying the escapade as much as she had anticipated, destroyed her Manchester ticket and when the 3 o'clock north bound train pulled out of the North station the girl was aboard with a ticket for Woodsville, her home. Instead of Manchester, she supposed that Sullivan was aboard the train bound for Manchester.

Arriving at Woodsville at 2.30 a. m. the girl was not at the station, by her father Freeman P. Gallant, who was about to take the southbound train for Manchester in search of the girl, and Deputy Sheriff Arthur E. Davis, who immediately took the weary young traveler in charge.

All day Tuesday the girl stubbornly refused to give the name of the man who enticed her from home and it was not until she had been confined in the county jail all day that she was willing to talk. The girl maintained that no harm had been done her which is substantiated by local authorities. It is believed that the man is a professional in luring young girls from home.

A rigid investigation has failed to disclose any local information as to the identity of the so-called Timothy O. Sullivan, but the authorities are still hopeful of locating him.

STRANDED LINER MAY BE PULLED OFF ROCKS

St. John's N. F., July 19.—The last passengers to be taken off the Norwegian-American liner Kristiania, which ran ashore near Cape Race Sunday, arrived here yesterday and reported that the vessel probably would be floated. The ship to which they were transferred also brought in the personal effects of the 1200 persons aboard, all of whom landed in good order.

The bulk of the liner's cargo was thrown overboard, and as the sea since Sunday have been calm, it was said that tugs would have little difficulty in pulling her into deep water. The passengers commended the conduct of the officers and men in looking after their safety and comfort.

1,500,000 IS REPORTED NO. OF THE DEPORTED

(By Associated Press)
New York, July 18.—The number of destitute deported citizens of Armenia, Syria, and Serbia sent into other countries, mostly to Switzerland, is placed as nearly 1,500,000 in a cablegram received here today by Abram Elkes, former Ambassador to Turkey, who was recalled at the breaking of relations with that country. The cable came from W. V. Peet in Switzerland, an American citizen who had lived in Turkey for forty years and but lately left there.

BAY STATE COMPLETES DRAFT WORK

(By Associated Press)
Boston, July 18.—The shipment of registration cards is being made tonight by Charles M. Gettemy, director of military enrollment to the sixty-two districts. Half a million cards in filling cabinets have already been sent out, properly numbered with the "red ink" numbers for the draft which will probably come on Friday.

THE STORAGE OF POTATOES

Washington, D. C., July 18.—The storage of potatoes of the main crop can be accomplished most satisfactorily throughout much of the United States in the dugout pit or potato cellar in some of its various forms of construction, says a recently published Farmers' Bulletin of the United States Department of Agriculture, "Potato Storage and Storage Houses." In general the bulletin says, no attempt is made to store potatoes of the early crop, since usually they are sold for immediate consumption.

While the dugout storage houses with frame superstructures are, perhaps, most satisfactory in cold climates, in some sections, especially in the South where drainage is poor, insulated frame structures built entirely above ground must be depended upon.

Purposes of Storage.
The primary purposes of storage, it is pointed out, are to protect the tubers from extremes of heat and cold and from light. Account also must be taken of conditions of humidity and age pile.

The temperature should be the high at which potatoes can be main-trained firm and ungerminated, and gous diseases in check. Experiments of the department with artificially refrigerated storage indicate that 30 degrees F. is sufficiently low for all practical purposes and that in the earlier portion of the storage season a temperature of 40 degrees F. is just as satisfactory as a lower one except where powdery dry rot infection occurs.

All natural light should be excluded from potato storage houses because when the tubers are exposed to even modified light, they are soon injured for food purposes. A practical rule in regard to humidity, the bulletin already mentioned says, is to maintain sufficient moisture in the air to prevent the wilting of the tubers and at the same time to keep the humidity content low enough to prevent the deposit of moisture on the surface of the tubers.

If potatoes are piled in too high piles they may become over-heated and deteriorate. Six feet is a good maximum depth to which to pile tubers in bins, and the area covered by each pile also should be limited. A good plan is to insert ventilated division walls at intervals through the pile or bin. These may be made by nailing relatively narrow boards on both sides of 2x4 uprights, 1 inch spaces being left between the boards. General ventilation for the whole storage house usually is accomplished through ventilating shafts in the roof.

Methods of Storage.
The possible way to store potatoes, says the bulletin, are pits or earth covered piles in dugout pits or potato storage cellars, in insulated wooden structures, in substantial masonry or concrete houses. The latter two methods are the most expensive. Pitting is the most primitive method of storage, but if properly done on well-drained locations is satisfactory in so far as the preservation of the potatoes is concerned. The chief drawback to pitting is that the potatoes are not always easily accessible in the winter.

Potato Storage Cellars.
The dugout pit or potato storage cellar is probably more widely used than any other type of storage space. Fitted with water-tight roof it is especially popular in the central portions of the United States. In the arid and semi-arid sections a type with sod or dirt roof is in most general use. As a rule, the excavation for the cheaper structures of the dugout pit or cellar type when erected on level or nearly level land does not exceed 3 feet. The soil removed from such an excavation, particularly if the dugout is of any considerable size, is ample for banking the side and end walls and also for the roof. The cost of construction may be greatly modified according to the character of the location.

In the cheaper dugouts, where the soil is of such a nature as to remain in tact it is allowed to form the side and end walls, the roof being supported on plates resting on the soil and held together by boards or joists. This form of construction involves a deeper excavation and a constant element of risk from a cave-in. In the more expensive and substantial structures the side and end walls are built of concrete.

Insulated Frame Structures.
Insulated frame potato storage houses are not used very extensively. As a rule they are better adapted to southern than to northern climatic conditions. The construction feature of such houses is the thorough insulation of their walls, ceiling, doors and windows. This type of storage house is not to be recommended for northern locations, nor is it advocated for the South except where poor drainage conditions will not permit the use of the dugout or cellar style of house. It is not recommended, because it can not be so economically constructed nor does it furnish as good type of storage as the properly ventilated cellar storage house.

The Aroostook Type of Storage House
The Aroostook type of storage house, with concrete or masonry basement walls and wooden superstructure, seems to be distinctively a product of Maine, and so far as has been observed is not found in any other part of the State. It is an expensive structure and is almost always located on a side hill or knoll in order that advantage may be taken of a ground level entrance. That such houses have proved satisfactory to the potato grower in Maine is evident from the fact that practically no other style of potato storage house is in use in that State.

The Artificially Refrigerated Storage House.

The artificially refrigerated potato storage house is as yet hardly in existence. The present use of this type of storage house is confined practically to the holding of northern-grown seed potatoes in cold storage for second-crop planting in the South.

WORLD AWAITS MICHAELIS' WORDS

(By Associated Press)
Interest in the great world conflict is divided between news from the battle fronts with the political situation in Germany and the eyes of the world are focused on Berlin today when Dr. George Michaelis, the new Imperial Chancellor, is to announce to the German Reichstag his policies and the policies of Germany in regard to the world war. Whether Germany will continue her relentless warfare until the end is a matter of speculation which Michaelis has continued to conceal since his appointment to the high post.

From all that has been said of the man and all that is known or could be learned nothing has developed which can give any idea as to his new move of Germany. He has succeeded in passing the gamut of speculation and its announcement of the aims and object of the German Imperial government is anxiously awaited by the man peoples and the peoples of the rest of the world.

The great question which will be answered is will the government yield to the demands for an early peace with out annexation and indemnities, which a very strong especially in the Reichstag, or will continue to ignore the demands of the populace.

After repeated attempts to regain her lost territory from the French in the Verdun section the Germans are apparently content to remain quiet and from the east end of the line near Amiens Wood to Jihl 301 the infantry activity has ceased and the Germans are contenting themselves with pouring shells into the French army of occupation which is holding all of the territory which Germany has been attempting to regain.

In the Chemin des Dames region the violent infantry engagements are at an end for the time being and the Germans are hurling tons of shells from heavy guns onto the French forces. The British and Germans in Northern Belgium continue their violent artillery duels and the British continue their patrol raids with success. The scene of one of these raids yesterday gained much territory and some prisoners east of Monchy le Prux in the Avesa section.

On the Russian front in East Galicia the Russians are successfully holding back the German and Austrian attempts to storm the regions of Halicz and Kalusz. The enemy is attacking with large forces of fresh reserves but without success.

The latest reports from Petrograd record the quelling of all the recent disturbances. In the fighting on Tuesday the official reports show that six were killed and 233 persons wounded.

Accidents will happen but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. Two sizes, 30c and 60c at all stores.

The Portsmouth Herald furnishes the news from 24 to 45 hours in advance if would be competitors.

GEDDES AN EXPONENT OF AMERICAN PEPP

(By Associated Press)
London, July 18.—Premier Lloyd George will have an exponent of American "pepp" as his new first lord of the admiralty in Sir Eric Geddes, who received much of his training in the United States.

Choice of this young business man to head the important admiralty post after disregard for precedent requiring that ministers be members of Parliament—was the most popular of the changes announced by Lloyd George in the interest of efficiency.

The British press today generally predicted Sir Edward Carson, shifted to become a member of the war cabinet, would fit in better at his new post than in the admiralty. He lacks purely administrative qualities so necessary for the marine department.

Opposition to Winston Spencer Churchill's appointment as minister of munitions was voiced by several editors today, but his enemies are charitable of his faults in view of his extraordinary energy. It was believed Churchill would soon be given an opportunity to expend his activity on speeding up aircraft construction.

Up From Obscurity
Sir Eric Geddes has come up from obscurity in the war. English born, he got engineering training in the Home-steel Steel Works, of Pittsburgh and with the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, going back to England and later on to a reputation in railroad circles for efficient construction work. He impressed Lord Kitchener with his ability in handling transportation problems early in the war. Until his appointment to the cabinet he was director general of munitions supply.

Dr. Christopher Addison, displaced by Churchill, becomes minister of reconstruction and Edwin Samuel Montagu, a former minister, succeeded J. Austen Chamberlain, resigned, as secretary of state for India.

IRISH PAPER SUPPRESSED BY ORDERS

(By Associated Press)
Dublin, Ireland, July 18.—The "Kilkeney People" an important local weekly newspaper, of which Edward T. Keane is publisher and owner, has been suppressed temporarily by the government and will be published only under strict censorship. Keane is a native politician and a leader of the Nationalist party since the days of Parnell. It is claimed by local politicians that the move was taken to prevent the paper influencing the vote in the coming election to name a successor to the late Patrick O'Brien, member of Parliament.

TWO MEN ARE INJURED AT YORK CORNER

Headon Collision of Motorcycle and Bicycle on Wednesday.

A motorcycle and a bicycle met head on on the curve of the highway at York Corner on Wednesday afternoon and both riders were bent to the York hospital. Guy Hamstead of York who was riding the motorcycle was pulled up unconscious with one ear nearly torn off and several bad bruises on the arms and legs. The bicycle rider, an Italian, whose name could not be learned, sustained a bad cut over the eye and part of his scalp was bare. Dr. F. W. Smith of York treated the injured men at the hospital. They were later able to be sent to their homes.

RAN AUTO INTO THE BUILDING

Maine Joy Riders Come to Quick Stop on Miller Avenue.

A party of joy-riders in a Maine auto got into trouble on Miller avenue on Wednesday afternoon and became indignant over the accident which was due to their own carelessness.

A small garage which was rigged up on skids was being moved by August Hett from Lincoln avenue to Spring street and when the building reached that part of Lincoln avenue facing Miller avenue, a man was posted to warn autos coming along in both directions. The Maine machine, coming in from Sagamore avenue paid no attention to the blockade, according to Mr. Hett, and went crashing into the building. The machine was damaged to some extent and considerable time given to a hot war of words in which one of the two women defendants of the party and subjected the contractor to a cross examination.

POLICE COURT

Isaac Evans and Peter Curran, an ice man hooked up in one or more places on Wednesday for which the police waited before the court to day for a charge of assaulting the man who handles the congealed water. According to the story the preliminaries opened on Water street. The ice man said he was carrying a large cake of ice on his back when he came along, tripped him with his foot. He dropped the ice and hit Evans in the forehead.

Evans said the ice man was wrong. He and his daughter were going to the river front to go in bathing and that without any words the ice man elbowed him. The daughter told the same story.

The ice man thought that the punching fest was over but he came back for a return engagement.

The testimony showed that Evans met the ice man again in front of the National Hotel where the second bout occurred. The ice man stated that Evans came along and offered to bury the hatchet. He extended his hands to him and while the hands were still clasped he said he jabbed him in the abdomen. For the second time he took a crack at the ice man and took Evans away from the battle grounds.

The court thought that the ice man should have been bagged as well as Evans and continued his case for sentence.

PUBLIC WORKS MEETING WAS SHORT

NAVY NOTES

Big Job on Ditty Boxes

The workmen in the local yard joiner shop are working night and day on the manufacture of thousands of ditty boxes.

Back to the Yard.

Machinist H. B. Heath of the military department at the local yard has returned from a month's special duty in the state of Maine.

166 Are Licensed.

One hundred and sixty-six motor and sail boats have been granted a license in this section of the first naval district which includes the coast from Cape Ann to Goat Island near Cape Porpoise.

Will Fit Out Here.

The large yacht Aztec purchased by the government and now at Boston yard is expected here today to be fitted out for navy work at the local navy yard. The Boston yard was unable to do the work owing to the rush there.

More Recruits on the Way.

Two hundred recruits from Newport arrived at the Portsmouth yard on Wednesday night and the same number are expected today.

Two Relatives Killed.

J. B. Kirkpatrick, a musician in the naval band at Portsmouth navy yard, received word today from Owensville, N. Y., of the death of two cousins, James R. Mauk and Mrs. Floyd Wallace, who were killed in an electric car accident at Niagara Falls.

EXETER GUN CLUB HOLDS FIFTH PRIZE SHOOT

(Special to The Herald)

Exeter, N. H., July 19—The Exeter Gun club held its fifth prize shoot of the season at the grounds of the club on Wednesday afternoon. The scores were as follows:

Thompson, 24; Farmer, 22; Crosby, 19; Fulson, 18; Healey, 13; Chase, 13; Gerrish, 10; Pever, 10; Shute, 10; Fisher 13.

After the regular shoot, several novelties were tried which entertained the good sized attendance. The field shooting was won by Crosby. The partridge shooting on doubles was a new feature which nobody seemed to be able to fathom. The running delayed shoot, another new feature, is not only difficult but requires skill and judgment of distance. The shooting of ten pair of doubles was introduced. Crosby, Farmer, Chase and Gerrish killed their share.

We miss the Portsmouth members and wish that they could come to Exeter so that we could show them that practice makes a good shot. The season is not half over and the cups and prizes are worth competing for.

HAMPTON BEACH

Hon. John H. Neal of Portsmouth, paid his respects to the Kaiser in no mistaken terms in his address on Wednesday evening on American citizenship. He was the speaker selected in the drive for recruits for the army and navy and he was frequently cheered as he clearly stated the position of America in the war. The first public meeting was a grand success.

FRANK W. KNIGHT SHOE TALKS

10 Market St. "SHOES OF QUALITY" Portsmouth

The ultimate economy of paying the price of a good shoe has never been questioned. Today good shoes cost more than formerly, but it is equally sure that they were never more economical. The test of economy is getting the full measure of service out of a shoe. A good shoe can be worn out and continue to look well in the process. Our shoes can be counted on to give that sort of service.
